So far, we've counted 12—yes, 12 outfits that Beyoncé reportedly sports in the four minutes and 31 seconds the “Spirit” video runs. That's gotta be some kind of record.

Granted, only 10 of Beyoncé's reported 12 costume changes made the final cut of the official video for the first single from her Lion King-themed album of original songs, The Lion King: The Gift. We're sure there's an extended version or making-of Netflix special coming soon; we're also sure we've never seen this many looks in a single video before—even a Beyoncé video. I mean, the only thing the woman didn't wear was shoes. (On that note, shouts to stylist Zerina Akers—girl, you did that...and I bet you needed a nap after. Also, thanks to IG account @beyonce.fashion for the assist in compiling this list.)

Next, a stunning and elegant moment, as Beyoncé dons a custom beaded ivory gown by Maison Alexandrine, hand-embellished with cowrie shells by Alex Navarro Designs and paired with a cowrie shell and chain harness by celebrity favorite Laurel DeWitt, whose metal designs have adorned Cardi B, Offset, Nicki Minaj and many more. DeWitt also created the cowrie shell headpiece Bey wears in a subsequent shot.
